120 Years of Goldhanger Parish Magazine

There has been a Parish Magazine since 1895 when the Revd. Frederick Gardner started it shortly after being appointed Rector at Goldhanger. There have been some breaks in publication, most notably during both World Wars, and in 2015 it will be 120 years old.

To celebrate 120 years of our Parish Magazine we will have a different cover each month during 2015 picturing Goldhanger at different times through our history. There will also be an article about Goldhanger and its history.

The Goldhanger Stone: what is it?

Written by Essex historian & archaeologist Miller Christy

Published in the Essex Archaeological Society journal in 1909

For many years past, I have been familiar with a very curious stone lying beside the road, just in front of the Chequers Inn at Goldhanger. The stone in question is a large thick semi-circular slab of excessively-hard black and white granite. On what is now its lower, but evidently was originally its upper face, is a wide deep semi-circular trough or channel.

This photograph shows the stone as it is to-day. The more diminutive village boys are accustomed to amuse themselves by crawling through the curved tunnel which the inverted stone forms.

There can be no doubt that this stone is only one of two similar ones. It will be seen that, if the stone figured was turned right-way-up and another similar stone was placed along-side it, the two together would form a large circular slab, 6 feet in diameter, with a broad deep circular trough on its upper side. What is beyond question, the fellow stone completing the circle, lies about 50 yards distant, where it forms the doorstep of a cottage, occupied by the curate of the parish. This stone is broken and how much of it remains cannot be stated, as most of it is buried.

What is the age of this remarkable stone and for what purpose was it made and used? The inhabitants of Goldhanger have no clear ideas. One suggestion is that it formed a circular drinking trough and it could certainly have been used as such. Another is that it once formed part of a cider-press, apples being placed in the trough and there crushed by the broad face of a wheel which was kept running round the circular trough, as in a modern chocolate-mill or mortar-mixing machine. This suggestion is more plausible; for cider certainly was made in Essex. At the same time a much less costly mechanism could have been devised for crushing apples. It seems not improbable that the stone did form part of a mill or press intended for crushing something.

THOMAS COKER

8019 Private 2nd Battalion Essex Regiment. Died 5th March 1915. Age unknown. Buried at Calvaire (Essex) Military Cemetery.

Parish magazine for April 1915 records:

THOMAS COKER

The account published in our last number - for March - of the death of Mrs Thomas Coker (Ethel Emma), on 14th February meets with its tragic sequel in the death of her husband in the trenches 3 weeks later; which it is our painful duty to record here. He appears to have been alive and well at one moment and dead the next, as he was seen and spoken to by a friend the same morning. It happened at Le Gheers (Belgium) on Friday 5th March.

He rejoined the 2nd Battalion of the Essex Regiment on the outbreak of war and had so far been untouched. He appears to have been struck by a stray bullet and the effect was instantaneous. He was a good and devoted husband, and after the removal of his wife through the incurable affliction (mental disease) to Colchester when his sorrow weighed most heavily on him, from time to time he used to come in the evening to the writer of these lines [the Rector] to talk over his grief which he felt so keenly, but was anxious that none should know it, which he bore with such fortitude and wonderful resignation. One can only pray that they have met with a happier re-union than God saw fit to grant them here. R.I.P.

Calvaire (Essex) Military Cemetery is located 16 km from the centre of Ypres, through the Lille Gate and past the villages with well known names, Wijtschate and Ploegstreet (Whitesheet and Plug Street) as the Tommies called them. then on to Armentiers. The cemetery was established beside a building known as Essex House and is an example of a regimental cemetery many of which were made in 1914 and 1915. It contains 218 graves.

The Vicar/Rector writes,

The Changelessness of God in our changing world.

According to a recent opinion poll, 76% of us think that we are less happy now than people were 50 years ago. The problem is insecurity, and lack of peace of mind. Many people who have a job and know they do it well are fearful for the future, and find it impossible to plan very far ahead. My wife, Nina, was encouraged to retire from teaching a few months ago – the school was in a position to employ two newly qualified teachers for the same cost as one “Nina.” People in many professions, including my own, feel that the goal-posts are moving all the time. It’s usually about money apparently – the value of a company’s shares often go up when staff are laid off. There is no feel-good factor, and it appears that we have become an uncaring society. Some blame the government, or the previous one, others the world recession, or the fortunate few who claim huge salaries and bonuses every year.

In spite of all of this, I don’t sense pessimism or despair as I visit around the parishes. There is concern – many folk seem to have a son or a daughter whose future is uncertain, and in my last parishes I met families who had suffered the blow of losing their home due to repossession. I know it’s happening around here as well. On the whole, people are bearing up, though, and the spirit that in previous generations has prevailed through wars, plagues and other disasters is prevailing now.

Was life really more secure a couple of generations ago? My grand parents were brought up in a Warwickshire mining village. Boys were brought up to join their fathers and other male relatives working at the pit. After fifty or more years, they would get their gold watch and retire. Girls were destined to become wives of miners, and bear their children. The most exciting event in their year was a day trip to Blackpool on August Bank Holiday, until after the war, when two weeks paid holiday a year became the norm. Some, like my Granddad for example, seemed to thrive on the solidarity of their predictable lives, but others, such as my Grandma were left feeling bored and frustrated by it.

In the midst of our changing world, people are seeking a “Rock” on which to build their lives. I hope that the church provides a sense of security, for those who don’t worship regularly as well as for those who do. I hope that the church is perceived as being always there for when people need it. The most successful services and events organised by the church tend to be those of a “Traditional” nature, providing a sense of stability in our uncertain world – the Christmas services, the Summer Fairs, Harvest Festivals, etc. How about making a point of coming to the Mothering Sunday service on 15th of this month?

The church’s season of Lent continues throughout March, recalling Jesus’ forty days and nights in the wilderness. This was a time of change and uncertainty for him, marking the end of his time as a tradesman in Nazareth and the beginning of his itinerant ministry. The change in his life was sparked off by his baptism in the River Jordan by his cousin John the Baptist, at which point he had a vision of the Holy Spirit descending to him in the form of a dove, and was then led into the wilderness by the same Spirit. He may have begun to realise even at this stage that he was destined to suffer and die, but if not then it wouldn’t have been long afterwards. He certainly identifies with all of our insecurity, and sought and found security only in God himself.

Ultimately, God is the only solid rock on which to build our lives. See Matthew 7 v. 24 and following for Jesus' story of the wise man who built his house on the rock, and the foolish man who built his house on sand. Did I forget to mention the dangers faced daily by my coal mining ancestors in the course of their work, and the worry of their womenfolk? Every generation has faced its fears and uncertainties in the face of the changes and chances of this world. We are given sources of worldly security, our loved ones, our homes, our daily routine – and to an extent we can often face and enjoy change. But it is only in God that we can find the eternal security that in our heart of hearts we crave.

“Through all the changing scenes of life,
In trouble and in joy,
The praises of my God shall still
My heart and tongue employ.”

(From the hymn by N. Tate and N. Brady).

KEN PERRY

Retiring Bell Tower Captain, Ken Perry was presented with a painting of the bells in St Peters by the new Tower Captain, Andrew Kelso, at the Bellringer's annual dinner in The Chequers on the 16th of January.

Ken was Tower Captain for 15 years and during that time has taught many new ringers, introduced many local children to hand bell ringing and to playing the chimes, organised many bellringing tours and has represented the village on Essex Bellringing Association matters.

Kenny Chaplin

Kenny Chaplin sadly passed away on the 4th January.

Kenny was born in Fish Street on the 1st of February 1932, the youngest of four sons and was educated in the Village School. After leaving school he worked on the land for local farmers, and enjoyed amateur dramatics with the Goldhanger Players, acting many roles. He was also a member of the Goldhanger Wanderers football team in the 1940s.

However Kenny found his true calling as the local postman in the 1960s, eventually gaining

Post Office long service awards. As a “Postie” he made many friends, both customers in the village and with colleagues in the Maldon area. He enthusiastically cycled everywhere, and is renowned for his regular cycle journeys to Osea Island in all weathers to collect and deliver the mail, even getting caught out by the tide several times.

His passion for cycling led him to take on Sunday newspaper deliveries around the village for many years, which he fitted around spending the lunch hour in The Chequers partaking in one of his favourite pastimes playing dominoes, and enjoying the Sunday roast with a pint.

Kenny had a great love of gardening and kept an allotment as well as maintaining his garden and keeping the family supplied with fresh vegetables. He was a keen Spurs supporter and had a fine collection of their hats, scarves and gloves.

At his funeral in St Peters the family ended the eulogy with the Postman’s Prayer, and the cortège left the Church to the sound of “I want to Ride My Bicycle” by Queen, followed by the sounds of the Church bells.

A testament to Kenny’s dedication to his role of cycling postman is that a colour version of the photo above is on the British Postal Museum website at...

Wildwatching News.

The nearest I've been to any mammals of late is Muntjack tracks in fields near to Great Totham Church, (which are, on the whole, dry for the time of year), and my dog chasing a Fox after dark at Roxwell. We disturbed it as it was raiding a rubbish bag at the edge of the village, and it took off across the fields. Foxes can sometimes be heard barking after dark.

Winter visitors are back again – the most phenomenal being the thousands of Siberian (Black-bellied) Brent Geese in and around the estuary. There were a couple of hundred or so Fieldfares (Pictured) on a field near to Sains Farm, Great Totham just before Christmas. They will have dispersed into much smaller parties, to feed on worms and berries, and indeed, some of them may well have migrated further to the west or south of here for the winter. We may have a big flock or two again this month as they head northwards again for the breeding season in Scandinavia.

A letter in Shooting Times and Country Magazine recently enquired about the absence of Hooded Crows, (Pictured). The writer's grandfather told him that the Crows used to be common in winter along the Suffolk, (and Essex?) coastline. The reply was that until the war, the eastern counties of England received a huge influx of these Scandinavian visitors, but they are rare in the UK today, south of their breeding range in Scotland. Two possible explanations are suggested – landfill sites in Norway, hence plenty of readily available food, and/or a slightly milder climate in Scandinavia are enabling the "Hoodies" to remain on their breeding grounds all the year round.

A family visit to Surrey recently revealed that Ring-necked Parakeets have moved into the area. Although they have been seen in many English counties, their main concentration still seems to be around parts of the M25 – including my old stamping ground, Waltham Abbey. They have a long history as cagebirds in this country, which presumably led to escapees forming the first feral flocks in the London area in the 1960's. Today, they are the most northerly parrot population in the world. Alarm bells are ringing because they are an agricultural pest throughout much of their native range in Africa and India, but in this country they seem to prefer gardens and urban areas generally at present.

This month should bring the first of the spring migrants back to our countryside, the Chiffchaff...

Second Thursdays – February. Meet as always at Goldhanger church, 2.00pm on Thursday 12th February. We'll decide where to go then. All welcome.

GOLDHANGER, LITTLE TOTHAM and TOLLESHUNT MAJOR W.I.

Our next meeting will be on March 4th at 7.30 p.m. in the Village Hall. There will be a talk and demonstration of Zumba with Liz Hiscock and we will all be invited to give it a try but participation is definitely optional. If you think you'd like to join in, please wear suitable footwear and clothing. We will be accepting cakes for Farleigh Hospice and we ask that you adhere to the new allergen regulations by using the labels so kindly provided for us all by Joyce. She has made what could have been an onerous task as simple as possible. Also, Julie would appreciate a seasonal flower from your garden for the competition.

Our February meeting was a very busy one with lots to discuss and plan for. Our speaker, Ron Ratcliffe gave us a unique insight into the role of New Scotland Yard with his tales of his rise through the ranks and many a humorous anecdote. No names were divulged to protect the guilty!!

Members decided, by a show of hands, to give due consideration of the W.I. resolutions once they had been shortlisted. This will enable us to continue with our timetable of events which we have all enjoyed over the past few years in the Winter months.

The extra activity for this month will be on 25th March when we will be going to the Colchester Institute for lunch. This is a very popular outing which many members enjoy. The Summer outing this year will be on Tuesday 23rd June and we will be having a 3-course lunch aboard a Thames Vessel. This proved to be a popular trip a few years ago and one that many members want to repeat. The cost will be £32.00 and needs to be paid by March 4th. The adopted charity for this year's Plant Sale on May 16th is to be the Prostate Cancer Charity. We will be given more information about that at the next meeting.

We all enjoyed the lovely refreshments and we thank the members who supplied them. The joint winners of the 'Flower of the Month' competition were Julie Chellingsworth with a pretty Witch Hazel stem and Jane Kynaston with a large Snowdrop. We look forward to seeing lots of Spring flowers in the next couple of months to banish any Winter Blues.

The village magazine is supported only by our regular advertisers and your donations. That's it!

Any articles about the village or for the benefit of the village will always be included.

Whilst we try to include all other submissions these increase the cost of the magazine, therefore any donation you feel able to make for your personal interest article will be gratefully received.

AGE UK Advocacy Support

Age UK has just started offering advocacy services in the Mid Essex area. Our skilled and trained volunteer advocates work with individuals who need advocacy support to enable them to have their voices heard, to ensure their wishes are respected and their rights are upheld.

The service provides

- Support
- Representation
- Someone to discuss any concern or questions
- Someone to discuss a difficult decision with
- Someone to speak on your behalf to others e.g. social worker, housing department, health officers
- If you are worried about any aspects of your care
- If you need support making a complaint

If you are worried or concerned about an issue and would like to discuss it with someone independent please contact us. If you are a relative, carer or friend and you are worried about them or their care you may wish to inform them about our service and if they would like our help you can refer them to the advocacy service. Contact is also welcomed from care home staff, social workers and other professionals who feel a person may be in need of independent advocacy support.

Our Citizen Advocates will not :

- Make decisions for someone
- Befriend someone (provided under AGE UK Befriending service)
- Offer care and support work
- Tell someone what they should do
- Speak for someone when they are able to express their own views
- Act in a way which benefits other people rather than the person they are advocating for

For more information about Citizen Advocacy please contact Gary Clinton on 01245 207013

The service is free, confidential and impartial.
